
Guards run in a fresh container per check, use only the agent's own artifacts, and never see ground truth. Dashed green: verified facts flow back to workers via the orchestrator. Every stage also writes claim.json (does the agent believe it is done?), which is compared with the grader to measure false success.